VOLUME XI.

Nineteen Hundred.

To our beloved and honored President,
Edwin Anderson Alderman,
we respectfully dedicate
this book.

DR. E. A. ALDERMAN.

Dr. E. A. Alderman.

EDWIN ANDERSON ALDERMAN was born in Wilmington, North Carolina, May 15th, 1861. He was prepared for College at the Bethel Academy, near Warrenton, Virginia, and in 1878 entered the University of North Carolina. His college course foreshadowed a successful life-work. He was a leader in every phase of University life, and in graduation, besides receiving special honors in English Literature and Latin, won the Willie P. Mangum Medal for Oratory.

On leaving college he immediately entered on his chosen work of education, being elected principal of the Goldsboro High School. In 1885, he assumed the superintendency of the Goldsboro Graded School which, by skillful organization he made prominent among North Carolina's public schools. From 1885 to 1887 he held the prominent position of president of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly. In 1889, as State Institute Conductor, he began a three-years' canvass of the State that resulted in untold good to the cause of education.

From 1892-93, he held the chair of History and Literature at the State Normal and Industrial School, which he had done so much to establish, but he resigned this to take the chair of Pedagogy at the University of North Carolina. While occupying this position the task of organizing the University Summer School was imposed upon him. So successful was he in this undertaking that the school is now one of the best of its kind in the whole country and has made for itself a distinctive place among the State's educational institutions.

In 1896, the president's chair being vacated by Dr. Winston, the trustees unanimously elected him to fill the place. The choice gave great satisfaction to all sections, parties and professions throughout the State. Soon after his election the honorary degree of Doctor of Common Law was conferred on him by the University of the South.

Dr. Alderman has been at the head of the University now for four years. During this time the same vigor in administration and skill in organization that have characterized his previous work have been evident.

Among the great educators of the country, Dr. Alderman is not without honor. He is an honorary member of the Maryland Historical Society, and a member of the National Education Association ; author of the "Life of William Hooper," and "A Brief History of North Carolina." In June, 1899, the Tulane University of Louisiana, conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. ; and in April, 1900, called him to the presidency, made vacant by the death of Colonel William Preston Johnston. As president of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Alderman has taken rank with the very best college presidents of America. Under his management there has been a steady increase in the number of students, the income of the University, and the number of volumes in the library. Many of the stately old dormitories of earlier days have been remodeled and beautified without destroying their historic effect ; the Alumni and Law Buildings have been completed, and the Library Building renovated and refurnished. The greatest tribute to his worth as an executive is his creation of a wonderful unity of purpose and action among the Faculty ; a high college spirit among the students, and an unflinching faith in his ability to lead to greater things on the part of the Faculty, students and trustees.

Should he leave us to go to the larger institution, his departure from his Alma Mater will be a great calamity to the cause of education. Students, Faculty and trustees have made every effort to retain his services, and the press of the State is outspoken against his giving up.

For the past eighteen years his eloquent voice has plead for education in nearly every county in North Carolina ; and at many of the national gatherings of educators he has been a prominent figure. An editor of one of the Western educational journals, who heard his speech before the National Superintendents' Association in Chicago last February, calls him "the foremost educational orator of the nation."

INTRODUCTION.

BEFORE the reader has finished looking over this eleventh volume, he will find that it differs very materially from THE HELLENIAN that has heretofore made its yearly appearance. For the past ten years the Greek Letter Fraternities have been making an effort to publish a college annual that would represent fully every phase of our university life. On account of the lack of both financial and moral support of the larger part of the students, it has been necessary to change our policy and narrow the range of our attempt. We here present to you a book which is intended to represent only the fraternities and such other matter that we saw fit. The name remains the same, but now stands rather for a fraternity hand-book of the University of North Carolina, than for the college annual which has been previously attempted.

SAMUEL MAY.

FOR FOUR years a member of the Faculty of the University of North Carolina, to him the position was a trust, administered with zealous purpose. To his colleagues he was resourceful of help and pleasure in a common service ; to his students a sympathetic interpreter of the beauty and romance and humanity of life ; to all a friend. In character generously good and wholesome ; in personal relations constant, thoughtful and gently courteous ; in the manhood of mind and heart and soul finished, he came to an environment that had not been his, knew it and was known ; he brought to its people a message of beauty and worth, effective, as it was uttered in the silence of unobtrusive effort.

Assume, my soul, thy penitential garb,
And fling away this insolence of pride.
For I would seek my spirit's narrowest cell.
And find a softer light, an air of little cheer,
A presence, comfortless and unadorned,
Secluded from the lighter mood of self,
Where I may throw me on the goading stones
Of true humility, and scourge myself
In saddest thought, until my soul shall utter
Its deep emotion in a plaintive moan.
For I have seen what strikes me to the heart,
A mystic something which I do not know,
That stills my confident mortality,
Reveals the weakness of my little strength,
The sad unwisdom of my dying mind.
In confidence of all the happy world,
But yesterday I looked on strength and zeal,
And knew the service of a kindly hand.
Secure, I thought the goodness of the day
Assured a greater for the future years.
To-day I looked where strength and zeal had been
And saw them not, for they had swiftly passed,
And with them passed my dream of permanence.
It seemed that I had looked on a morning sky,
A rising sun with mild and ruddy light,
That flashed to all the world a greeting, fraught
With glorious tidings, that the night had passed.
And in that scene I read the promise fair,
That day would mount the clear unsullied blue
From light to light until the radiant noon.

An instant and it seemed that blackest night
Had spread its mantle over earth and sky.
The gleaming sun was, in that moment, gone
And Nature's promise for the day recalled.
Silence and desolation, dim and cold,
Were overspread the earth ; the birds of day
Had yielded to the voices of the night.
The fond assurance of a greater joy
Had swiftly vanished, and the constant world,
In that dread moment, seemed to halt
Uncertainly, and, then, to veer its way
To errant paths ; impelled by an unseen force
To mock the vaunting confidence of man.

So mercilessly swift the change from life
And hope to death and grief's lament, it seemed
That very day had turned to very night.

Within the inmost cell of self, I kneel,
In the damp, dark air that presses on my soul,
To chant the rapt confession of my heart,
Responsive to the harmony of grief.

The ocean, sweeping on its distant way,
Beyond the far-sent glance of mortal eye,
Unpenetrated by the light of day,
Whose waters ebb and flow and never die,
In depth and breadth and life shall be
The emblem of eternity.

The quiet rivers in their narrow course,
With softer waters and a measured strength,
Fettered, yet growing from a feeble source,
Are dying in their greater depth and length ;
At last they widen to the sea,
And yield their waters silently.

And mortal life is like the gentle stream,
Which leaps with rippling of its childhood song,
Fulfills, in manhood strength, the youthful dream ;
Yet be its tranquil course, or short or long,
Must ever widen to the sea
And float into Eternity.

The Point of View.

“ My daughter ! ” and the old man’s voice was stern.

“ We must set this matter right !
What time did that sophomore leave,
Who sent in his card last night ? ”

“ His business was pressing, father, dear,
And I ’ll tell it to you straight :
He took his leave, and went his way
Before a quarter of eight . ”

“ I told the truth , ” the maiden said ;
And into her eyes so blue
Came a tiny twinkle, as she thought :
“ A quarter of eight is — two . ”

Ode of a Commons Boarder.

Backward, turn backward, oh time, in thy flight ;
Feed me on gruel, just for to-night !
I am so weary of sole-leather steak,
Petrified dough-nuts and vulcanized cake,
Oysters that slept in a watery bath,
Butter as strong as Goliath of Gath—
Weary of paying for what I don’t eat,
Chewing up rubber and calling it meat—
Backward, turn backward, for weary I am ;
Give me a whack at grandmother’s jam,
Let me drink milk that has never been skimmed,
Let me eat butter whose hair has been trimmed,
Let me once more have an old-fashioned pie,
And then I ’ll be ready to turn up and die.

Grinds.

- An old man broken with the storms of state, VICK.
A man who loves to hear himself talk, HOLMES.
The bed has become a place of luxury for me, WHARTON.
What winning graces, what majestic mien ;
She moves a goddess, she looks a queen. A Co-ED.
I, to myself, am dearer than a friend, CUMMINGS.
A little, round, fat, oily man of God, "PARSON" CHEATHAM.
Weak of body, but strong of mind, "THOLLY" HUSKE.
Oh happy soul that all the way to heaven (?) hath a summer's day, . WEIL.
Night after night he sat and blurred his eyes with books, . . . WOODARD.
Oh, leave the noisy town ! Oh, come and see our country cots, and live content with me. "ACTON" JONES.
From him rattling nonsense in full volleys break, BUSBEE.
On his own merits a modest man is dumb, "JOJO" RAMSAY.
If his brain worked half as fast as his body, forsooth he would be a
 Socrates — but not so, RICHARDSON.
At every sentence sets his life at stake, KLUTTZ.
He sows a noise of jaggling words unknown, CURTIS BYNUM.
Many that are not mad have sure some lack of reason,
 KLUGH AND BYERLY.
He is too disputable for my company, BATTLE.
Beautiful in form and feature, MCDIARMID.
I am the very pink of courtesy, ROUNTREE.
The bore is usually considered a harmless creature, ANDREWS.
No night is now without hymn or carol blessed, SOUTH BUILDING.
A doleful case desires a doleful song, "BROTHER" MURPHY.
Let not the generous (?) die, MCADEN.
With cigarettes never seen, but always seeking one,
 MCNIDER, ADAMS AND CALDWELL.
A mighty hunter is he, "NIMROD" EHRRINGHAUS.
Their voices are celestial melody, EMORY ALEXANDER AND HINSDALE.

He might be a very clever man by nature, for all I know, but he laid so many books upon his head that his brains would not move.

- RICHARDSON.
Thy modesty 's a candle to thy merit, CROSSWELL.
I called on him yesterday and found him sitting all around a table by himself, J. A. MOORE.
What a head for just a boy to have, W. B. WHITEHEAD.
They have eaten me out of house and home, ROOT AND ROSE.
Lord, how wise you are ! SMATHERS.
Could I love less I should be happier, OSBORNE.

JOKES.

PROFESSOR COBB (in geology laboratory) : Have all the class enough specimens?

EMORY ALEXANDER : Professor, I 'm "two shy."

Do you know him? Who? The assistant manager.

Bully Jones is dead. Where did he go? Ask Phillis.

Wherein lies the difference between the german club and the pressing club?

One presses, pants and courts ; the other presses coats and pants.

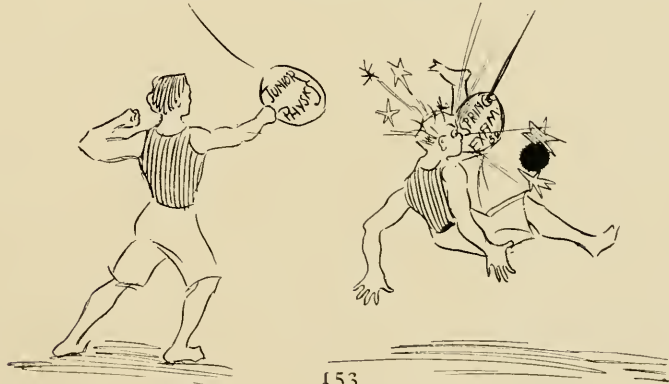

Why did Burke Budgers jump in the millpond?

BELL (on physics, after having answered a question) : Toll not the bell—for the Bell has been told.

"I am _____ of the University of North Carolina, president of the Senior Class, president of Alpha Theta Phi, chief cheerer of the Athletic Association, vice-president of the Current Topics Club, and the smartest man since John G. Pettigrew." Who?

A Junior's Soliloquy.

That one must think before one acts,
In Psychology I was taught,
But this does not agree with facts
For I took it before I thought.
